

Your challenge

Are you the enthusiastic, talented intern we're looking for?

Are you currently studying an economic related subject and are you interested in math, analytical sciences and Game Theory? Have you ever wondered how microeconomics, especially Game Theory, is applied in practice? Then this is your chance to find it out!

Your responsibilities

As our intern, you will support us in the identification, organization and execution of these projects. You will work together with us and get an insight how theoretical knowledge can systematically be applied to business practice. If you consider yourself as an independently working, analytical and organized student, bringing some knowledge about Microeconomics, Game Theory and related topics, you will be the perfect support for us!

Your team

We are a small team of negotiation experts set up to support the global Philips Procurement organization in optimizing their negotiation strategies and techniques. Among others tools, we use Game and Auction theory findings to design case specific negotiation processes which we then implement together with the responsible sourcing specialists.

Our offer

We offer exposure in a strategic position in a very dynamic business. The opportunity to shape and direct high impact business strategies will be offered. In addition, Philips offers you excellent career development possibilities.

- Duration: preferably 6-12 month (a shorter duration can be discussed)
- Available per January 2015 or any later date
- Location: Eindhoven, Amsterdam or Singapore (to be discussed, depending on the project).
- Possibility of writing your thesis with Philips in subsequence can be discussed
